

FILLING THE KING'S KHAKI WITH MEN IN CANADA AND IN ENGLAND

They've met the blarney stone. Former policemen, now with the 109th Regiment's overseas unit, telling Police-man Marshall how well he looks directing traffic at the corner of Bay and Queen streets.

A regular 10-o'clock-in-the-morning procedure at the Pearl street armories. New members of the 109th Overseas Battalion being sworn in by Lieut.-Col. Jesse Wright.

Signing up for a trip overseas. The recruit reaches the orderly room of the 109th Regiment and is attested for service with the 109th Overseas Battalion. The insert above shows him before the medical examiner.

A fine study in expression. Sergeants of the 109th Regiment's Overseas Battalion, the 109th, presenting the claims of King and Country to two young men returning to work.

Calling up the groups. A Derby recruit at Scotland Yard, London, handing back his khaki armlet.

Stirring scenes in old London. Typical body of recruits leaving for the station after being called up under the Derby recruiting scheme.

Are You a Victim of La Grippe ?

INFLUENZA, or, as it is popularly known, La Grippe, is an infectious disease which should not be treated lightly—in even apparently mild cases, complications may rapidly develop and as it is peculiarly depressing to the heart, serious failure of heart power is a positive danger.
